An enigmatic collection of notes, containing notes recorded in a special cabin that were never meant for other people's ears. This is Ki, speaking about the Evergate Original Soundtrack by M.R. Miller. The music of Evergate was inspired by the composer's daughter. When she was born, he wrote her a lullaby and built her a music box to play it. That lullaby became the main theme for Ki and the underlying fabric of the entire score. The album features many talented live musicians, including shimmering layers of electroacoustic harp (Lara Somogyi), a gorgeous live string orchestra (FAMES Project) and a haunting women's choir. Guzhen (Kathy Qianqian Jin) and liuqin (Leng Yijing) ripple through Ki's life in China and katajjaq throat singing (Nina Segalowitz) evokes her life in Alaska. The OST also includes brand new arrangements and bonus tracks that didn't make it into the game. The album was mixed by the incomparable Steve Kempster and mastered by Grammy-award winner Emily Lazar. You are a light in darkness. You are a pure heart. You are a single fallen star. You are a dream dreamt in the night, forever lost, but yet, you are not. You are Ki. Welcome To The Celestial World and Beyond. This download includes the original soundtrack featuring a selection of songs composed by M.R. Miller and performed by MPR Music with special guests. The Celestial World is an eclectic collection of arrangements of traditional Chinese melodies arranged in a contemporary / electronica style. Features Key:

- Experience Dangers with Luck
The Dark and the Light. Where the most dangerous creatures are the least ignorant of it. The best weapons are just a pile of scratches and bruises.

- Unspeakable Evil
Our sins live on in the creatures that walk the island.

- Harsh Agreements
In a perfect world, we have made a pact with the island: for as long as two sides exist, we will be at war.

- Fate
While we fight, the island sings...the trees tell it's story.

- Creation and Destruction
Creatures in this world have rival, opposite, axes. It's like a constant balance of force. It's a bit like the Great Snake in Myth.

- Legendary Monsters

By Bill Van Auken 17 February, 2015 CounterPunch Last week, the University of Virginia School of Medicine announced that it had completed testing and then medical trials of a form of medical marijuana derived from cannabis and designed to alleviate pain and muscle spasms caused by a variety of neurological disorders, such as multiple sclerosis, but particularly Parkinson's disease, a progressive neurodegenerative disease that, according to the American Parkinson Disease Association, affects close to 1 million Americans. The subjects were in all, as the university explained, "experienced anxiety and depression." The university cited the potential usefulness of medical marijuana, "which has been shown to have positive effects on pain and spasticity." The project, led by a faculty member of the school's Department of Neurology, Dr. Geoffrey Guy, Jr., began in 2013 and involves the use of tetrahydrocannabinol, or THC, a psychoactive component of marijuana that provides users with the sense of high. The university said the study was c9d1549cdd

: An Immigrant's Personal History The Wandering Sons (Joyful Noise, 2005) All Reviews by Wandering Sons 02.12.14: (No Ratings Yet) Login to Post a Review Reviews Owner Message Originally from Russia and now living in Denmark, Alexander Burns has been playing music for over 20 years. The first time that he picked up an instrument, he began to play guitar and later he picked up the so-called "toy piano" upon arrival in the States. After listening to a great deal of traditional gypsy music, he decided that he wanted to seek out some of this music of his heritage and so began seeking out the gypsy bands and their respective music. He quickly found the (Preservation Hall Jazz Band, with Dave Holland) as one of the great and major influences of his life. Since then he has played various instruments and styles, including folk, jazz, pop, folk-pop and more. He has been a member of bands such as Andra Brown's Vagabond Orchestra, the Japanese Taiko group The Ancestors and The Wandering Sons. He has recorded and released several albums himself, while in the Sons, the group recording the album Tales Across Time: An Immigrant's Personal History. The recording was done in Brooklyn with Burns as producer and sole vocalist. According to the website Burns describes the concept of the album as being the connection between the American farmers and the gypsy musicians on their farms in the early 1900's. The album gives us the vinyl history of the original American gypsy music from this era, basically focusing on the groups that came to the United States from different countries, their instrumentation and harmonic style and the music that they made with their instrumentation. On the recording, he has three different gypsy musicians from different countries present on the album and they all play their own instruments, all styles, creating a very interesting recording which gives the listener a chance to hear the original key of the different recordings that he plays. His former group The Wandering Sons are represented on the recording with Andy Federician on vocals, Andreas Hugenberg on guitar, Byron Thomas on Fender Rhodes piano and Marion Greene on guitar. The album begins with an American-made gypsy waltz, the Hebridean Maiden Waltz of Scotland. He then plays Guitar and Mandolin, some of the waltz music of mezzo-soprano
